

REFINERS SEEK CUT CAUSTIC SODA RATES

Briefs Compiled and Forwarded Monday to Interstate Commission at Washington.

EXPECT RULING IN AUGUST

If Reduction Is Granted, Great Saving Is Assured Oil and Refinery Men of Oklahoma.

Briefs of the two caustic soda cases, those of the Oklahoma Petroleum Refining Company, Mr. Walker D. Hines, director general of railroads and oil of Cushing and company, the Phillips Refining company, the Conocochee Refining company, and the Continental Refining company, companies vs. W. L. Hines, director of railroads, hearing of which were held at the meeting of the special examiner on July 7 before Special Examiner H. N. Tidwell of the Interstate Commerce commission have been prepared by Secretary R. N. Adams of the Tulsa Traffic association and will be forwarded today to Washington.

These cases, filed to obtain a decreased rate and reparation for shippers' losses, will be used to immense quantities in Tulsa and Sand Springs oil refineries, from the source of supply at St. Louis and other points in the east, are of unusual interest to local oil men and refiners in that a decrease in the freight rates now in effect will practically affect everyone in the industry, refineries in particular, the exorbitant rates now charged by the railroads for raw materials making the refining industry in this locality unprofitable, while one refiner has been forced out of business on this account.

On August 7 the defendant's briefs are due at the commission, examination to be held in Washington, and on August 22 the complainants' reply brief is due. When these are all received, a decision will be made by this court of last resort, date for the decision to be decided upon later.

FRISCO SHOPS WON'T BE BUILT FOR MONTHS

A long and apologetic letter from T. P. Fyell, federal manager and regional director of the St. L. & S. F. railroad, received by Secretary Douglas of the chamber of commerce yesterday, says that the project of constructing the Frisco shops at Tulsa was postponed for several months, or in other words, until the government had returned the railroads to the private ownership again.

"Until the railroads have been turned back to their original owners it will be useless for us to attempt construction on the railroad shops," read the letter. And the author, in several paragraphs, however, that Tulsa would not be forgotten when the time arrived to locate the shops.
